Radio Players Group

About the group

Have you always wanted to act, but were deterred by learning lines? The Radio Players group create purely acoustic performances, giving you the opportunity to read scripts, play-up the melodrama and learn about how a radio play is produced in a recording studio.

This group will transport you to a bygone era where vocal expression, sound effects and music are key to character development and storytelling.

Members are required to operate sound effects, read their parts and generally have fun. No experience is required. The Radio Players also give regular performances to seniors' groups and retirement villages.

Group details

The Radio Players group meet weekly for rehearsals on Mondays from 10.00am to 1.00pm in the Church of Christ Hall, 1 Danby Street, Torrensville.
